PRS Europe, 24-25 April 2018, RAI Amsterdam

13 June 2017: Following its highly successful launch in March this year, organisers of the Plastics Recycling Show (PRS) Europe, the first pan-European exhibition and conference solely dedicated to plastics recycling, have announced that the event will return to the RAI Amsterdam in The Netherlands on 24-25 April 2018.

Industry body Plastics Recyclers Europe (PRE) continues its strong support for the exhibition and conference: “We are extremely delighted that after a successful launch of the PRS Europe show this year we can announce today the new dates for the 2018 edition of the show.” said Ton Emans, President, Plastics Recyclers Europe. “We are certain that with all the earned interest from different sectors and industries, we can grow the show and continue putting plastics recycling in the spotlight of a public debate.”

PRS Europe 2017 featured over 80 exhibiting companies, heard more than 40 conference speakers giving imaginative and inspirational presentations and had a total footfall close to 1,400 over two days.

“We have already had very keen interest in Plastics Recycling Show Europe 2018 from exhibitors, speakers and industry supporters,” said Matt Barber, Event Director at Crain Communications. “Our team look forward to building on the outstanding success of the inaugural Plastics Recycling Show and hosting an even bigger and better event in 2018.”
